ISIS TEMPLE.

An Important Gathering of the Ancies Arable Order of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.

The first ceremonial session of Isis Temple under the administration of Ill. Potentate Stephen J. Osborn, was held last Thursday evening. To say that it was a howling success would be using language which might be misunderstood by the exoteric, but the unanimous opinion of the illustrious nobles who were present, is that the order was conferred by the new officers in a highly satisfactory manner, and the subsequent proceedings were marked by a degree of conviviality moderated by decorum which augurs well for the future of the order. The novices, twenty-one in number, representing divers trades and professions, were tenderly cared for by the nobles, and their loud declarations of satisfaction demonstrated that they were in no wise slighted by the brethren. In fact one of the newly initiated was heard to congratulate himself upon being here yet, and to remark that if he had overlooked a pleasure in the joining he would cheerfully leave it for those coming after. The banquet after the ceremonies was loudly praised and the responses to the toast sparkled with wit and merry thought. Noble Latta, of Wilson, seems to have carried off the honors of the evening. proving himself a most successful after dinner speaker, poet, songster and story-teller. Noble Bandy, of Abdallah Temple, responded to the toast of "Our Sister Temple," in a creditable manner, while Noble Haskell will be long remembered by the biblical students for the information furnished concerning beverages. This order seems to have more enthusiastic devotees than any similar institution in existence. It is not unusual to have members come from a distances of two hundred miles to attend a ceremonial session, and every meeting of Isis is cheered by visitors from abroad. Noble Mathers, of Hella Temple at Dallas, Texas, seems to have been a particularly welcome wisitor last week.

Following is a list of the novices who crossed the sands and refreshed themselves after their journey: hos. G. Berry, Herington; Joseph C. Miller, Winfield; John B. Miller, Sheffield, Mo.; Chester Munson, Wiehita; John C. Davis, Wellington: Harry Adams, Horton: Ed. H. Supton, Hoxie; Wm. F. Schuithers, Hoxie: John M. Yoder, Herington: Joseph Z.
